There are nine hidden words in the grid below. Look up, down, across, backwards and diagonally to find the words that remind you of how to be smart on the worldwide web!

Search for these words that will help you share with care:

ASSUMPTION: Something that you or others think is true about a person, but there's no proof that it's true.

CODE: A word, phrase, image (like a logo or emoji) or symbol(s) that represent a certain meaning or message.

CONTEXT: Information that surrounds the message or whatever we're seeing that helps us understand it. This can include where the message is, the time when it appears or who it's coming from.

CURATE: To decide what to post online—text, photos, sounds, illustrations or videos—and then organize and present it while thinking about what effects it might have on people who see it or what it might make them think about you.

FACT: Something that is or can be proven to be true.

FRAME: When you take a photo of a landscape, person or object, the frame is what defines the section that the viewer can see.

INTERPRET: The way a person understands a message or the meaning they get from it.

OPINION: Something you or other people believe about a person or a thing that isn't necessarily a fact because a belief can't be proved.

OVERSHARE: Sharing too much online. Usually it means sharing personal information or just too much about yourself in a certain situation or conversation online.

Challenge: Write a sentence about being a smart online explorer using as many of the hidden words as you can.
